Plovdiv is the second-largest city in Bulgaria after Sofia. Plovdiv is a picturesque town, with many parks and gardens, museums and archaeological monuments. Plovdiv's appeal derives first from its lovely old town, largely restored to its mid-19th-century appearance and full of winding cobblestone streets. It is an imposing open-air museum situated on the three hills of the ancient Trimontium. The Old Town is literally packed with atmospheric house-museums and art galleries and, unlike many other cities with 'old towns', has eminent artists still living and working within its tranquil confines. One of the most remarkable sights, the Ancient Theatre (a well-preserved Roman theatre), is located there and is still used for open-air performances.
